the Dimmig Trial Enlivened by an Im aginative Newspaper Reporter. SAN FRANCISCO, March 7th .- Judge Murbhy's face was afire this morning when he took his seat upon the bench and directed the Clerk to call the jury list in the Dimnig case. After this was done his Honor holding a copy of this morning's Chronicle in his hand, said that he did not believe the charges contained therein against G. K. Porter, one of the jurors, but he felt called upon to investigate them, and if he found them false he would cite the re-porter for contempt.

The article mentioned was then read to Mr. Porter, who was placed upon the witness-stand and sworn. The charge was ontained in the concluding paragraph of the report of yesterday's proceedings in the Dimmig trial, and alleged that as Expert Hickox left the stand at the conclusion of he session, he met Mr. Porter. The two men shook hands, and the jurors asked the expetr: "Well, what do you think of the nandwriting?" Hickox answered that was without doubt the work of Henry Bennayon. The two men then walked from he Court-room together, talking about the

Mr. Porter denied the charge most en phatically and asked permission to explain the whole matter. He said that as Mr. Hickox passed the jury-box he shook hands cordially with Porter, with whom he ad been acquainted for many years. Said Hickox to Porter "Do you think it would be improper for a witness to ask a juror to take a drink?" Porter said he did no in return, "Do you think it would be improper for a juror to ask a witness to take a good cigar?" Hickox could not see anything improper in either arrangement. The two men then walked along Kearny treet to California and down the latter horoughfare to their offices.

Expert Hickox supported the statemen of the juror, and denounced the article in question as a "lie," and the reporter who wrote it as a "ubiquitous liar." Judge Murphy, without lending his approval to these strong terms, said that there had on nese strong terms, said that there had evidently been a mistake, and directed the District Attorney to prepare affidavits, so that the reporter could be cited for con-

WHO ARE BOSSES.

A correspondent asks: "What do you mean by 'bosses'? There must always be bosses; they are necessary to party management; if one man is not a boss another will be. Then why not use and influence these bosses instead of fighting them. Cannot more good be accomplished in that way than by contention with them?" The answer is obvious. The argument of our correspondent would apply as well to any vicious influence; "use but de not oppese it." The difficulty with such reasoning is that it confesses the inability of men for

John G. Holland declared in his dayand he was wise among men as were but few-that "the prolific source of all our political corruption is office-seeking. When men are sought for, and adopted as are candidates for office, it is, ninety-nine times in every hundred, because they are available for the objects of a party. Thus it is that selfish or party interest, and not public good, becomes the motive in policical preferment, and the results are the gains, sales of influence and patronage, corpolitics a reproach."

This was too sweeping, and it was faulty in not taking into consideration the corrupt political boss. It is not true that all men seeking preferment are actuated by impure motives. There are ambitious men who go through life and politics cleanhearted and clean-handed. There are those, and they are in the majority, who, to accomplish their ambitions, consent to employment of methods wholly disreputable, and for that purpose form connections that in social life they abhor, and would not for an instant countenance. It is deable. Others there are, insensible to the pricks of conscience, and having little or no self-respect, who from the outset ally themselves with vicious influences for the purpose of obtaining positions of trust. These are bad enough, they assail the system of free government and prostitute their sovereignty, but they sink into insignificance beside the men who openly keep political pawn and broker shops, and deal in nominations and votes as hucksters in These enemies of self-government usurp the honorable title of "leader," and mask behind the name of "organizer." They are neither, for they assume to lead by reducing voting and office-filling, to the low level of barter and sale; they buy votes and sell them, for coin; they peddle offices and partition patronage for gold, utterly regardless of the inevitable result upon a system of free government and blind to the history of venality in early democracies. They abominably and shamefully resort to corrupt practices to defeat the popular will, never have the cause of good government at heart; office is to them simply a means for bleeding office-aspiring men in the first place, and the public treasury in the next.

They have no politics; their political creed is completely covered by the area of a dollar or compassed by the percentage they wring from the weak men who permit themselves to be bled. They are for party simply because it is an agency they can employ, never because it represents a principle in government. They deal in and butter to them. They control, because men are weak on the one hand and corrupt on the other, or neglectful of their obligations to society and indifferent to the pub-

They are overthrown when there come about quarrels in their own ranks which are improved to work revolution; and when the people, in periodical great uprisings against corruption and wrong, find the burdens put upon them by these unconscionable fellows wholly unbearable. Notable instances are the overthrow of the Tweed ring, the breaking the backbone of the Chicago McGargle clique, the upheaval that has convulsed San Francisco about once in every decade, the result that stirred Brooklyn to purge itself 1883, and led Philadelphia to rise up in 1884 and turn the thieves, robbers, and moneychangers out of the municipal temple, and which ought to upheave Sacramento in

These are the men, this is the cattle we invariably mean whenever we speak of bosses-not leaders by right of brain force: not organizers by reason of a genius for maintaining forces; not Captains born to lead and loyal to political principles, nor Generals commissioned by nature to command, and employing only those legitimate agencies in the interest of party supremacy that are approved of all men. Captains, leaders, organizers, loyal chieftains party must have, ought to have, will have: but the boss is an excrescence, a tumor upon the party body that must be. and will be, excised by the keen knife of

THE GLASS BALLOT-BOX.

There is no invasion of the sacred rights of the American citizen at all comparable with tampering with his ballot. No crime is equal to it in heinousness. It strips from the free man the one chief emblem of his right as a ruler; it usurps his kingship and reduces him to the level of a slave. Hence it is that the people have been so jealous of any machinery that renders it possible for the citizen's vote to be negatived. That there may be thrown about the ballot of the free man every possible safeguard, four Legislatures have labored diligently to enact laws that will give the strongest possible assurance that a ballot once cast shall be reflected in the result.

But there remains, in this community at least, an vulnerable spot in the armor of the law-we have opaque instead of transparent ballot-boxes. There is no reason against and every reason for glass ballotagainst and every reason for glass ballot-boxes. DAILY RECORD-UNION the coming election, to substitute ballotboxes with glass sides, and, if possible, to procure the heavy glass globe boxes. There is plenty of time between now and next Tuesday in which to prepare the boxes now owned by the city with at least one glass side, as a temporary precaution.

The law does not define the character of the box-it simply provides that before the ballots are received it must be opened and exhibited to all present, and then locked and not reopened until the hour arrives for counting the ballots. The very purpose of opening and exhibiting is to give assurance to the people that the box has not been stuffed. With a ballotbox with transparent sides, the deposit of every ballot can be watched, and a venal Inspector cannot escape detection if during self-government, and that no man believthe polling hours he drops in fraudulent ing in a representative system can afford ballots. We need the glass ballot-box in Sacramento. It is the safest, fairest and altogether best of ballot-boxes, and every dictate of justice demands its use. The location of Lathrop is so central that it has been named the "HUB OF THE STATE." Fifty-three trains stop at Lathrop daily, and all passenger trains remain half an hour for meals. The railroad round-house, branch machine and repair shops are located there, and give employment to many men, and this, the first public offering of lets in this town, is an opportunity rarely met with.

FRIGHTFUL DEATH.

Young Harley Hooker Killed at the Depot.

Harley Hooker, a boy 15 years of age, the son of Mrs. James Hooker, a widow living at Twenty-sixth and B streets, met with a frightful death at the Southern Pacific Rail. road depot at about 11:10 o'clock vesterday

The Sacramento local, No. 13, had just arrived from San Francisco, on the south track, and a crowd of newsboys and others were gathered around the baggage stand at the east end of the depot, where the San Francisco papers, just arrived, were being counted out to the boys. No. 51, the Southern Pacific train, had just pulled in on the north track and No. 26, the Stockton train, which leaves at 11:20, was being slowly backed down the center track from the east to clear the switch for the San Francisco local. The switch engine was at the east end of the train and the lookout on the west end had stepped off the platform of the car to signal the engineer when young Hooker suddenly stepped oackward upon the track directly in front of the slowly-moving cars. Several persons who saw his danger called to him, but it was too late. The cars struck him and he fell beneath the trucks, the two wheels of which passed over him before the train stopped. He was picked up in a horribly mangled condition and carried into the stationporter's room. Both legs and one arm were broken, there was a severe wound in the right side of his head, and his entrails pro-truded from a frightful wound in the abdo-

Dr. Huntington and Dr. G. L. Simmons. Jr., were summoned and were soon in attendance, but all they could do was to somewhat alleviate the sufferings of the boy during the short time he had to live. The asked that a priest be sent for. One came soon after and administered the last sacraments. The boy remained conscious almost to the time of his death, which occurred a little after 12 o'clock. His mother and brother had not yet arrived and he desired the priest to say good by to them for who spend most of their time about the depot, and he is surprised that more of them are not killed. He save the them are not killed. He says they board the trains while they are in motion, climb all over the cars and commit all sorts of depredations, which keeps him chasing the injunctions issued in the hydraulic mining cases. The amended complaint was filed on the 18th of July, 1887, and sets forth that on the 16th of September, 1885, an injunction was issued by the United States Circuit Court, in the case of George Cashman vs. Amador and Sacramento Canal Company et al., against the plaintiff and others, restraining him from tailing debris into the Cosumnes river or its tributaries; that plaintiff was com-pelled to give a bond in the sum of $10,000 to stop work in the Hill Top mine and stop running water through the Amador and Sacramento canal for sixty-four days; to employ counsel at an expense of $1,200, and to lose money in various ways. That subsequently the same Court decided that said George Cashman was not entitled to the injunction. A crosscomplaint and answer was filed by defendant on the 15th of October, 1887, and the whole case will come up to-day for adjudi-cation. Plaintiff demands judgment in the sum of $6,760 and costs. Messrs. McKune & George represent the plaintiff and Messrs.

Angelo Domentini's Case. The trial of Angelo Domentini, charged with a criminal assault upon a 12-year-old girl named Mary Wiedman, was commenced in Department Two of the Superior Court, before Judge Van Fleet, yesterday, District Attorney Elwood Bruner prose-cuting the case, and W. A. Henry and C. r. Jones appearing for the defendant. The whole day was spent in an effort to secure jurymen who had not formed and expressed opinion. Mr. Jones subjected each one of the jurymen whose names were called to a very rigid examination, and many were When the Court adjourned ten men had been secured who were acceptable to both sides. The prosecution expect to prove that the child was engaged in selling ickets for the benefit of the Orphan Asyum, and entered the store where the defendant was employed to sell him a ticket, and that while there he committed an assault upon her. The defense will be that the girl being over 10 years of age was capable of consent under the statute, and that no violence was used. The Court-room was filled with spectators, mostly Italians.

Mollie Jones' Children.

Since the incarceration of Mrs. M. B. Jones in the County Jail her three children Nellie, Stella and Edward Chester, aged respectively nine, seven and three years, have been in charge of Manuel Strauss and Mrs. Kate Cooper, who were arrested night before last on the suspicion that they were connected in some way with the death of the stranger who was found dying in the alley between L and M, Second and Third streets. Yesterday it became necessary that some provision be made for them and the case was taken before the Board of Supervisors. Pending their action Mrs. Dr. Clayton and Mrs. F. W. Fratt, of the Protestant Oryhan Asylum, appeared and offered to take charge of the children, temporarily, for a small compensation. As it was not desirable to send small children to the County Hospitol the Board decided to pay $12 per month to the Orphan Asylum for the care of the children, and they were accordingly sent out there yesterday after-

SACRAMENTO, March 7, 1888.

To the Members of the California Museum Association: In accordance with the custom of the Association, I desire to submit the following brief report, as President. I assumed the duties of the office but a few months since, and while during that time I have become acquainted with the purposes and work of the Association, I do not feel competent to treat upon subjects relating to the alms of the Association, or to offer succeptions with regard to its future polwith the pirposes and work of the Association, I do not feel competent to treat upon subjects relating to the aims of the Association, or to offer suggestions with regard to its future policy. Careful inquiry and investigation, however, convince me that the work of the Association has been carried on well and economically during the year past. The Art Gallery and School of Design, through the efforts of the Association, have become widely known, and the increased visitation during the year past bears witness to the popularity of the institution. The custodian estimates that fully 12,000 people have visited the Gallery during the year. The School of Design continues to receive good support, and is now recognized as an important factor in the educational system of the city. The instructor reports most satisfactory progress on the part of the students in the school, a fact that was well attested by the showing made at the last annual exhibition, when over three hundred drawings and paintings, all bearing evidence of careful training, were displayed on the walls of the class-room. In maintaining this school alone the Association is doing much toward the development of art in California, and the members should feel proud of the honor that must attach to its already successful efforts in this direction. The interest felt in the Association by the people will be largely augmented through the addition of the State mineral cabinet to the Gallery, when properly classified and arranged, as has been ordered by resolution of the Board.

While the donations to the museum collection I have been informed by the Secretary, have not been numerous during the past year, the Association has been liberally encouraged by the press and people since its organization, and it is hoped that more of our citizens will unite in the work for the ensuing year; become members, and assist in making the Association a greater power for good in the community.

Interesting and Valuable Discovery. G. O. Hayford, of Colfax, has made a most interesting, and what promises to be a very valuable discovery in the way of nut growing. Owing to observations that the nuts of the black oak and the Italian chestnut were similar in shell and texture of neat, he concluded that the latter might be successfully grafted upon the former, and last year tried the experiment He grafted a number of small oaks with scions from Italian chestnuts of previous year's growth, and with the most gratifying results. Nearly every one of the grafts grew and attained a remarkable hight for a single year. The union between the stock and grafted section is excellent, and the new growth gives a specially vigorous and hardy appearance. There can be no doubt that trees so grown will be equal if not superior to the natural stock of the chestnut, and from results of experiments in other ingraftings it is be-ieved that earlier bearing will be secured The outlook then appears to be that persons having land upon which young oaks are growing, may, instead of grubbing them out, graft them, and thus soon have a field of thrifty Italian chestnuts, without even plowing the land. Thinning, however, ufficient to permit the field being plowed, would unquestionably increase the rapidity of growth and be desirable. A sample of the growth made upon Mr. Hayford's premises last year may be seen at this office. Marco Varozza, who has an excellent farm at Middletown, near Placerville.

A. G. Damon, the victim, arrived in this city on Monday night, and registered at the International Hotel as coming from San Diego. He deposited with the night clerk, Nelson G. Willcomb, $100 in gold and retained considerable money in his possession. He said he had been at work as a carpenter on the big flume at San Diego, which is being constructed by Carle & Croly, of this city. On Tuesday morning, before leaving the hotel, he asked Mr. Willcomb for his money, saying he was going out to "take the town in" a little. Willcomb told him if he was going out to "take the town in" a little. out for that purpose he had better leave his money in the safe, but he intimated that he was able to take care of it. When the clerk asked him if he should take the charge for his room out of one of the $20 pieces he said that he had plenty of small change, and drew out of his pocket a handhad at that time from $175 to $200. As stated in our report of yesterday morning, when Damon was picked up he had in his pockets only two dollars in silver, and that was in his right-hand vest pocket, while his purse, which was in another pocket, contained no money at all. The night clerk says that Damon commenced drinking some the night of his arrival and expressed a desire to go out and ome back and sleep in the same room that night, but he did not return. Damon was seen on J street on Tuesday, about noon, by J. T. Walsh, steward at the County Hospital, who had known him when he worked as a carpenter around Auburn and Clipper Gap. He was then in the company of a man named Girard and was apparently sober. Mr. Walsh says he was always known in that section as a hard-working, inoffensive man and one not likely to get into any trouble.

At 8 o'clock last evening Dr. White, Superintendent of the County Hospital, made a post-mortem examination of the deceased. His lungs, heart, liver and kidheys were all found to be in a normal conlition. Some Election Suggestions. Ens. Record-Union: Just at this time we hear a great deal of talk about purity in elections, etc. Somehow, I am under the mpression that there is somewhere in the statute-book of this State a provision reuiring saloons to be closed on election Am I correct? If so, whose especial duty is it to see that that very wise provision is enforced? As a rule, men, be they ever so vile, in their sober senses do not fall so low as to sell their votes, or cast a ballot ing the latter's brother, H. A. Rogers, at where they have no right to, thereby running a chance of serving a term in the penitentiary; but once steeped in electionday intoxicants they are then fit instruments for the manipulation of corrupt political ringsters who fatten on the proceeds of political chicanery. And, by the way, as the late Republican Convention so openly indorsed ring rule and violation of fair elections, would it not be a good idea for the Democratic Convention which meets to-night to pledge in unequivocal terms its candidate for Chief of Police,

Supervisors and Auditor. County Auditor Miller went before the Board of Supervisors yesterday morning and explained his position in regard to the action of the Board instructing him to draw a warrant in favor of A. W. Burrell for $8,500, on his contract for constructing the Twelfth-street bridge. The Board, on the day previous, ordered the warrant drawn on the general fund, and the Auditor declined to draw it. Yesterday he suggested a plan by which the matter could be arranged. He suggested that the warrant be drawn on the general road fund, which is exhausted, and then the Treasurer could ndorse it as "not paid for want of funds," when it would become good, negotiable paper, upon which the contractor could realize. Then, when there was money in that fund, the warrant would be cashed. Mr. Burrell is expected here to-day, when the Board will probably take some further El Dorado county, tried the same thing by Administering Dr. Haines Golden Specific. It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it; is absolutely harmless, and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been made temperate men who have taken Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge, and to-day believe they quit drinking of their own free will. IT NEVER FAILS. The system once impregnated with the Specific, it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. For sale by JOS.
